These are not ordinary times. An uncertain job market requires HR professionals to demonstrate added value to employers and set themselves apart from peers for career advancement. This is a comprehensive HR management course offered in partnership with the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) and taught by experienced, senior-level HR professionals.

The Alabama State Council of SHRM is asking each chapter to purchase an ad in their annual HR Alabama Magazine. The articles are first class and the advertising creates an Alabama shopping guide for Human Resources Professionals. The magazine will be mailed to over 4,000 HR professionals in the state and given to each attendee at the Alabama State Conference in May. This is great advertisement for any business that provides temporary staffing or payroll and benefits administration to companies, so we wanted to pass the opportunity along to our members.

Detailed information was emailed to all members (on February 12th, from Becky Ellis), so you will be able to share with your company or any business that could benefit from the advertisement.

Deadline is April 4th.
